MAXINE GORDON meets International North Yorkshire based artist and musician Sarah Güsten-Marr. Güsten-Marr who was orphaned in Liberia as a baby is returning home for the first time in 45 years on a charitable mission to support health education and art in the country and to release her new song 'Forgotten'.

Güsten-Marr is travelling with Eugenia Shaw, founder of HIV and AIDS Action for Liberia (HAAL). Sarah is patron of the charitable organisation, which will carry out health promotion activities.
